AMERICA MEETS LABOUR CRISIS

ROOSEVELT DELAYS MINE STRIKE

TOLEDO WORKERS NOW WILL ARBITRATE

Washington, June 14.

The personal intervention of President Roosevelt has again averted a major industrial catastrophe in the United States. The President, at a conference at the White House to-day, secured the promise of the Union leaders of the butuminous coal miners that a strike involving 145,000 men, called for Monday, would be postponed until July 1.

President Roosevelt made it clear that he wanted more time in which to attempt conciliation by means of arbitration.

This strike, which many believed would precipitate violence in the great coal mining areas, was called to enforce the maintenance of the New Deal standards of wages and working hours. It was to a great extent the result of the decision of the Supreme Court outlawing the President's control of industry in the matter of working conditions.

The Union leaders fell in with the President's plan, leaving the proviso that the men must agree and that meanwhile the existing wage agreements should continue. A recommendation to this effect will be put by the Union leaders to a mass meeting of miners tomorrow and it is confidently expected that it will be adopted.—Reuter.

ARBITRATION

Toledo, Ohio, June 14.

Workers in the Edison Company here who yesterday decided upon the immediate renewal of their strike, whereby 30,000 persons had been forced into idleness until it was called off ten days ago, have now accepted the arbitration offer of Miss Frances Perkins, the Secretary for Labour in the Roosevelt Administration.—Reuter.

N.R.A. EXTENSION

Washington, June 14.

Following yesterday's delay, the House of Representatives reconvened to-day and after a brief and listless debate approved the Senate amendments to the N.R.A. extension Bill, thus completing congressional action.

The measure now goes to President Roosevelt for his signature. The House passed the Bill by a vote of 338-30.

Later.

REORGANISATION

New York, June 14.

A revised reorganisation plan for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, providing for control and management by bondholders while bond interest is in arrears, was submitted to the principal institutional investors, holding over $100,000,000 of the railway's bonds to-day.

It is learned the leaders of the railway equipment industry are prepared to submit to President Roosevelt a plan to permit railroads to modernise their equipment on an extended credit basis. The plan, which is reportedly backed by all leaders in the industry, as well as many carriers, provides for the use of four per cent. ten-year notes, redeemable by Federal Reserve Banks. The proponents of the scheme estimate that there is $350,000,000 of potential business in rehabilitating the carrier equipment, which would be an enormous aid to employment.—Reuter.

JUBILEE RESERVOIR

It is notified in the Gazette that the reservoir commonly known as Shing Mun Reservoir now under construction in the upper Shing Mun Valley will in future be known as Jubilee Reservoir.

Australia's Davis Cup Hope Dashed

FIRST TWO SINGLES MATCHES LOST

ONLY MIRACLE WILL HELP

Berlin, June 14.

Germany's Davis Cup team to-day surprisingly swamped the Australian challenge in the semi-final round of the European Zone, winning the first two singles matches.

Australia's ace, Jack Crawford, lost to Von Cramm, the German Number One, in straight sets, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2.

Henkel, Germany's Number Two, accounted for McGrath, losing the first set 4-6, and then taking three in a row, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2.

Thus Australia is faced with the almost impossible task of winning the remaining three matches. In the doubles they have a better than even chance, but in the singles only a miracle can help them. McGrath is not in Von Cramm's class, and it becomes necessary for him to beat the German.

Having eliminated France, Australia was given more than a chance to win to the final round of the European Zone. Against America, Australia was given the choice, and it looked as though the Antipodeans would meet Britain in the challenge round. But it looks that way no longer.

Czechoslovakia and South Africa, the other semi-finalists in the European Zone, have to finish their tie before June 20.—Reuter.

WAR VETERANS TO FRATERNISE

BRITISH VISIT TO BERLIN PLANNED

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 15, 2.10 a.m.)

London, June 14. The British Legion has received an official invitation from the principal ex-servicemen's organisations for a Legion delegation to visit Berlin on July 13, to examine the question of inviting ex-enemy countries to send representatives to the Legion Conference in 1936. The invitation came from the Nazi organisation of disabled servicemen, the Stahlhelm Kyasshauser, and the Reich Union of German Officers.

The invitation has been accepted, and the delegation will consist of Major F. W. C. Featherston Godley, Chairman of the British Legion, Colonel G. R. Crossfield, former Chairman, and two or three others.—Reuter.

H.K. GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENTS

SCHOOL MISTRESSES PROMOTED

It is notified that His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, under instructions received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, has been pleased to make the following appointments:

Miss Mabel Wilkinson Newsome to be a Senior Mistress, Education Department.

Miss Mabel Blanche Hall to be a Senior Mistress, Education Department.

Dr. George Howitt Henry, L.M., L.Ch., L.A.O., to be a Medical Officer.

Miss Margaret Scott McGuffog to be an Assistant Mistress, Education Department.

expected to be entirely settled, as negotiations with the Japanese authorities have resulted in overcoming all the difficult points affecting the situation in Charhar Province. Discussion is still continuing between Mr. Chin Teh-suen, Civil Commissioner of Charhar, and Col. Matsui, the Japanese Liaison Officer at Kalgan.—Central News.

Hongkong's Future As An Air-port

PUBLIC MEETING SUGGESTED

COMPROMISE PROPOSAL

We have received the following further contributions regarding the desirability of developing Hongkong as an international airport:

The publicity being given by your esteemed newspaper to the risk under which this Colony is now lying of "Missing the Flying Boat" is highly opportune and appreciated by the writer, in whose judgment the letter of Mr. F. A. Swaffer is by far the most appropriate to the real circumstances of the case.

In actual fact, those responsible for the control of aircraft traffic within the Colony, and those in South China as well, read their

SEEKING BODIES IN RUINS

45 Recovered From Scene Of Blast

Berlin, June 14.

It was officially announced this afternoon that thus far 45 bodies had been recovered from the ruins of the Reinsdorf explosives factory. The victims were workers who were trapped in the plant when explosions and fire swept the place.

It is not expected that the total death roll will exceed 52, however. Earlier estimates placed the loss of life variously between 50 and 100.—Reuter.

regulations with considerable freedom; none are more ready to co-operate in these matters than those already admitted to the freemasonry of the air. The reason for the delay is entirely political.

The general political conditions in the Far East are so disturbed at the moment that it may be the wisest course for our Government to defer definite action in this matter, as Hongkong is a valuable pawn in any possible future negotiations in this area. But it is very galling for us to be left in the present state of doubt. I therefore feel that the more we express our unqualified opinions, as Mr. Cassidy has done, the more actively vocal we continue to be on the subject.

the sooner will action be taken.—(Continued on Page 14.)

Baer Must Prove Right To Challenge

SLATED TO FIGHT MAX SCHMELING

TITLE BOUT NEXT SUMMER

New York, June 14.

Madison Square Garden announces that Jimmy Braddock, newly-crowned world heavyweight champion, has agreed to defend his title against Max Schmeling, the German ex-champion, in the summer of 1936.

Thus the possibility of a title fight this summer, in early September, as was suggested earlier, seems to have faded.

Madison Square Garden announced that Max Baer, whom Braddock defeated yesterday in their fifteen-round grudge, would be offered a bout with Schmeling in September. If Baer were able to beat Schmeling, he would be substituted for him as challenger next summer. Thus he would be able to obtain a return engagement with Braddock.

It is doubtful, however, that Baer will be given a chance at the title before he beats Schmeling whom many declare to be the logical contender. Furthermore, he may quit the ring altogether.

X-Ray examination has shown that Baer suffered two fractures of small bones in the right hand during his fight yesterday. There is also a chip fracture of the left hand. He has a swelling the size of a marble near the left wrist joint.

The new champion's handlers were quick to spoil any chance Baer may have had for putting up an alibi, on the strength of broken hands, by revealing that their man fought with two badly damaged ribs, injured during training and scarcely healed.—Reuter.

EIGHT LOST IN TEXAS FLOOD

MANY OTHERS STILL MISSING

Ovalde, Texas, June 14.

Eight persons are reported drowned and many more are missing following widespread floods in South-western Texas.

Hundreds have been compelled to flee from their homes owing to the swollen creeks rising rapidly, resulting in the inundation of whole villages.

Damage to crops, bridges and railways already is estimated at over $2,000,000.—Reuter.

CANADA'S MOTOR EXPORTS

HONGKONG BIG CUSTOMER

Ottawa. The production of Canada's automobile manufacturing industry in 1934 was valued at $76,133,000 (£15,227,000)—the highest value reported by this industry since 1930.

Most of Canada's motor-car exports go to countries in the British Empire, and Hongkong is an important customer. In 1934, for instance, Canada sold Hongkong 265 passenger cars worth $113,000 (£22,600), 140 trucks worth $69,000 (£11,800) and 342 automobile parts—a grand total of $172,000 (£34,400).—Reuter.

Honolulu, June 14. Mechanics have groomed the Oriental Clipper, and it is indicated that the big amphibian will depart for Midway Island Saturday. She will remain there several days, probably making exploratory flights, and will then return to California.—United Press.

GERMAN BID FOR NAVAL POWER

BRITAIN MUST BE CONSIDERED

BASIS FOR MEASURING TONNAGE RATIO

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, June 15, 8 a.m.)

London, June 14.

With regard to the proposed Anglo-German agreement on relative naval strength, a particularly important point is that in reckoning Germany's potential tonnage deduction will be made from the British sea power represented by ships which are now out of date or on the way to obsolescence.

This point is revealed by Reuter's diplomatic correspondent to-day.

Thus, he explains, when the German building programme is completed in five or six years' time, Germany's fleet will correspond in categorical tonnage to 35 per cent. of Britain's strength of that day, and not of the present date.

INSULL FINALLY FREED

"ALL I CAN SAY IS I'M HAPPY"

LAST OF MANY CHARGES

(Special to "Telegraph")

Chicago, June 14. Mr. Samuel Insull, Sr., former utilities company manager, his son, Samuel, Jr., and Mr. Harold Stuart, one of the former associates of the Insull "compact" were to-day acquitted by a jury on direction of the judge when charged with a violation of the bankruptcy laws.

Mr. Insull appeared almost stunned by the suddenness of the decision. But he smiled, and said wearily: "All I can say is that I am happy. And I'm through."

This was the last of a series of charges against the one-time multi-millionaire who, fighting a falling market in 1929 and 1930, found himself ruined when the bottom dropped out of his holdings and those of his companies. His whole personal fortune went into the companies for which he was responsible.

This last charge was that Mr. Insull's group transferred stock and cash from the sinking Corporation Securities Company when he well knew that bankruptcy was imminent.—Reuter Special.

Fierce Storm Over H.K.

WELCOME ADDITION TO WATER SUPPLY

The thunderstorm which broke over Hongkong in the early hours of this morning brought a welcome addition to the Colony's water supplies.

Observatory figures show that 4.95 inches of rain fell between midnight and 6 a.m. The heaviest fall occurred from 4 to 5 a.m., when 2.74 inches were registered. This is by no means a record for one hour, the figure having been exceeded on many occasions. On July 19, 1928, 3.96 inches were recorded in one hour.

As a result of the downpour, Homantin and district were transformed into rivers of mud. Commencing from Cherry Tree Hill, the mud swept down into Homantin Street, spreading into Waterloo

Anglo-German naval conversations were resumed this morning when Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop, chief German delegate, conferred with Sir Samuel Hoare at the Foreign Office.

Private conversations between the experts of both nations occupied the afternoon.

It is expected that the conversations of the next few days will be devoted to an analysis of figures relating to tonnage and armament of various kinds of warships, so that the agreed ratio of 35 per cent. for Germany's navy can be shaped into a practical working understanding.—Reuter and Reuter Special.

JAPAN'S STAND

Tokyo, June 15.

Japan's determined opposition to any invitation to Germany or Russia to participate at the coming Naval Conference is attributed partly to the fear of additional complexities to the conversations if seven powers are represented and partly to the fact that it has been generally assumed hitherto that the conference would deal primarily with Japan's demand for parity, and by this, her naval position in the Pacific.—Reuter.

PROGRESS MADE

London, June 14.

Herr von Ribbentrop and other members of the German Naval Mission who returned to London yesterday, were received by the Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, this morning, and later in the day there were individual exchanges of views between German and members of the British Delegation on certain technical matters.

The British delegation will meet to-morrow and a formal joint meeting of the two delegations will be held later.

The form of the ultimate agreement that may be expected to emerge from the recent discussions remains to be settled. It is understood that the basis of it will be an arrangement whereunder German construction would be limited to 35 per cent. of the British naval strength, calculated in categories of independent ships subject to such latitude as may seem necessary; and also that the ratio would not be subject to disturbance by any action of other powers or by any future change in the German status.

It will be recalled that Herr Hitler in his Reichstag speech, when defining German naval demands, declared that for Germany this 35 per cent. ratio was fixed and abiding.

Newspapers warmly welcome the prospect of an Anglo-German arrangement on these lines, designed to take place in any agreement that may later result from international discussion of limitation of naval armaments. Other powers signatory to the Washington and London Naval Limitation Treaties have been informed of the stage reached in the Anglo-German talks.—British Wireless.

KAISER

HOME OF LOST
IMPERIALISM

A DREARY ROUND

By H. A. ALBERT

The ex-Kaiser is ill . . . the ex-Kaiser is not ill . . . the disputed rumours fly. The truth, apparently, is that Wilhelm is a vain man who does not like the world to know when he is laid up with a little cough.

He reads his newspaper cuttings with avidity, and, if he dislikes them, promptly contradicts.

Not very long ago I interviewed him in his rose-garden in Doorn. "I believe tribulations and trials are brought by God for His own good purpose," he said, or I thought that he said.

"I am firmly persuaded that one day I must face my Maker in the world to come—but I have no regrets. Even were I able, I would not alter the course of events by one millimetre. I never wished for one instant to go to war with Britain; but that is all. Even my abdication was necessary—in the best interests of Germany at the time.

But the All-Highest presumably did not like the comments I had made on these remarks, or else I painted him as too old and sad and feeble, for the interview was subsequently denied. Some high official who called himself the Chancellor got very excited about it. Yes, Chancellor.

HOME OF LOST IMPERIALISM

For Doorn is a home of lost Imperialism—one long surprise. Whether the Kaiser is ill or well, the fact really matters only in the little self-contained dusty world that is Doorn to-day.

It is more German than many places in Germany. Many German officers with Royalist sympathies have settled here with their families. Others—good Nazis—visit the town in order to see their former Emperor fallen from his high estate.

From all over the world, in fact, the tourists come. They perpetually pester the two Dutch detectives who guard the gates of Doorn House to be allowed for one moment to set foot within the grounds. They buy picture postcards of Wilhelm in the shops. And they wait, generally in vain, for the ex-Kaiser to take his renowned daily walk through the main street at two o'clock.

The ex-Kaiser himself prefers seclusion. And he prefers simplicity. There is nothing of the marble palace about his house. A few faithful courtiers have followed their master into exile, and the ex-Royalist always insists upon his old title of "Your Imperial Majesty" being said with due formality. Princess Hermine, the ex-Kaiser's wife, has two ladies-in-waiting, and the head of the house of Hohenzollern has his aide-de-camp. That is all.

DAILY ROUTINE

His life, the sameness of the routine at Doorn day after day, is deadly dull and uninteresting. At one time the ex-Kaiser found much to occupy his mind. His house was shut in by high trees, his small, private park was a wilderness. He set to work to alter all that.

The trees were cut down, some by his own hand, and gorgeous

ROLL COLLAR

Of Silver Tissue On Black Dress

CAMELLIA JABOT

A lovely neck arrangement for a plain black afternoon dress . . . soft roll collar and jabot of silver tissue, the jabot trimmed with three silver and black camellias.

PARIS FABRICS

VARIETY is the outstanding note among the dress fabrics this season. Taffeta is big fabric news. At right, there are the many printed flower taffetas, demure pink ones, with sprays of delicate pink flowers; and as a reaction to taffetas, we shall wear filmy flowery chiffons, shimmery satins, and lovely brocades.

Rayons hold the field so far as plain dyed materials are concerned. The honours are more or less equally divided amongst three types—rayon crepe-de-chine, marocain, and satin backed marocain. A newcomer is an all-rayon marocain which is uncrushable, it appears.

As for pique, white pique, it deserves a paragraph all to itself. Besides being very popular for trimming, there are white pique tailored suits, white pique overcoats, and white pique evening dresses. A marvellous evening dress with a wide flounced skirt, is entirely of white pique.

As always for summer, dark blue is the thing. French-women this season seem to have a partiality for pale blue. It is seen in frocks, undercoats, with small draped hats to match the cloth, in satin blouses, in scarves or yokes, draped close to the throat, or in hats alone.

gardens took their place. Two rose gardens were laid out, and one was presented to the citizens of Doorn.

But now—all that is ended. The ex-Kaiser no longer takes a great interest in his grounds. Enfeebled by bronchitis and rheumatism, aged by sorrows, he can no longer so sharply enjoy even his occasional glimpses of the sea.

Life goes on—a dreary round! Up at seven, a short walk, then the family prayers. Then the Kaiser will probably read till lunch-time, sometimes works by British authors—Dickens, Scott, and Marryat all figure in his library. A few letters to be answered, perhaps a gentle stroll for the sake of exercise, if the weather is good.

It rains in Doorn as often as not, and then there is only more reading to be done. Warwick Deering, newly published biographies, reminiscences, or else the Bible. Frequently the Bible.

SPIRIT OF DESPAIR

I could tell you of how the ex-Kaiser seemed to me a gracious and gentle old man, seeming to bear no resemblance to the fierce figure I had seen so often caricatured during my childhood. I could tell you of what the secretary

LATEST BOOK OF EPIGRAMS

Washington.

Washington Society prides itself on brilliance of wit, aptness of repartee and suavity of phrase. But not all those in official society are ready coiners of epigrams and some of those who appear to be aren't either, it turns out.

Former Governor John G. Pollard of Virginia who has a reputation for humour himself, has compiled a little catalogue which should comfort the non-epigram coiners.

Mr. Pollard's book is a collection of epigrams largely about Washington and the New Deal, some coined by himself and some by others.

Here are some of the selections: The New Deal—"A senator throwing his brain out of gear and giving his tongue free-wheeling."

The Brain Trust—"A thing which ought to be on tap but not on top."

The Supreme Court—"A court which corrects the errors of lower courts and perpetuates its own."

Good Times—"A period that will never come until people are able to buy things they don't need."

Hard Times—"When hitch-hikers are willing to go either way."

A Conservative—"One who believes in things forced on the world by the radicals of yesterday."

A Radical—"One who would be a conservative if he had a fat bank account."

A Committee—"A group of men who keep minutes and waste hours."—United Press.

revealed as he showed me over the house.

Somehow one cannot escape the spirit of despair; of a forlorn, faded past that broods about the house.

"It is monstrous to say that the War was brought about for my own personal ends," the Kaiser said, I believe, in the interview that has been denied. "Up to the last minute I did all within my power to prevent the conflict. Remember that Queen Victoria was my grandmother. Remember that I valued my English friends, and admired the British people."

Yet, even now, the ex-Kaiser does not see Germany as a conquered nation.

"She was never defeated in the field—never, Treachery from the rear brought about her ruin."

He gave me no answer on the question of his return to Germany. The Treaty of Versailles he sees must be scrapped.

"The conditions can no longer be carried out by Germany. There will be no prosperity for her until the world realises that."

The entry of the Princess Hermine interrupted our conversation. Over coffee the ex-Kaiser expanded with reminiscences of the people he had known in the old days, but I could detect in his voice no tinge of sadness, no mournful longing for the past. Perhaps it is now too late to care.

It is curious how the forlorn feeling of a faded past presently spreads over all the physical actualities and makes Doorn dustier and more despairing than it really is.

TOWNS WITHOUT TAXES

Paris. There are towns where no taxes are paid and where, on the contrary one is paid to live.

It may sound like a fairy tale. Yet it is a fact, confirmed by official documents, that 24 French communes on the Swiss border, with a population of about 10,000, pay no local taxes. Instead each inhabitant receives a yearly dividend, ranging from 100 to 200 francs.

The explanation is quite simple. In years gone by, these communes became the proprietors of spruce and fir woods in the vicinity. There woods are exploited in business-like fashion by each commune so well that there is a profit after all the communal expenses have been paid. This profit is divided between the inhabitants.

La Chaux des Crotonsy, one of these communes which is an attractive mountain resort, may be taken as one of the best examples. During the present century, nobody has paid any local taxes. Instead each inhabitant, including women and children, has received a yearly check averaging 160 francs. Further each family has been furnished with free firewood, and

NANKING AGREES TO YEAR'S EXTENSION

Nanking, June 14.

It was officially announced at to-day's meeting of the Legislative Council by Mr. Liang Hanchao, Secretary-General of the Council, that the bill for extension for one year of the 5% surtax on all imported goods from 1st July has passed all stages in the Council. He added that this bill has been sent to the Central Government for ratification and approval.

It is expected that this bill will come into force as soon as instructions are obtained by the Executive Council from the Central Government.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

since the allowance has been quite generous, half of it has generally been sold, adding to the dividend check.—United Press.

CAN "SANCTIONS" BE ENFORCED?

means of enforcing international discipline ought, therefore, to be sought for on other grounds. There is only one means, that of public opinion.

To those who hold that all this is very vague, we reply that, even assuming economic sanctions were enforceable, they could only be enforced through a public opinion sufficiently vigorous to repress the contrary tendencies of trade and of the trader.

Thus, without the backing of public opinion, there can be no sanctions; and with public opinion, they are no longer necessary.

WAKE UP, HONGKONG!

It is reassuring that such a large measure of public support has been forthcoming during the past few days for the plea that the Government should do all in its power to make this Colony the obvious port of call for air lines in these latitudes. There can be little doubt but that, before long, Japan and North China will have air connections with Europe, India, the Straits Settlements, the Dutch East Indies and Australia. A large percentage of this traffic should pass through or by Hongkong. It should matter little to us who carries the traffic so long as Hongkong, by providing adequate facilities, such as first-class landing grounds, beacons, directional wireless, etc., at reasonable rates, not only attracts air services but encourages them to call here. The policy which made this seaport what it is should be equally successful in developing the Colony as an air-port. Every air line calling here will be an inducement to other lines to call for trans-shipment of passengers and mails, in which connection it should not be forgotten that it is the trans-shipment trade which has made Hongkong what it is. If the Government wakes up too late and finds air lines passing north of us, through Canton, or south through the Philippines, because permits are either refused or are "under consideration," it will have much difficulty in diverting the traffic to Hongkong. British lines should, of course, be encouraged, but business can only be held by lines giving good service at competitive rates, as witness the shipping trade passing through the port. French, Dutch, Chinese, Japanese and American services will be flying this way in course of time, and refusal of permits by Hongkong can only succeed in diverting the traffic; it will not stop it. An analysis of passengers and freight passing through this port will show that Hongkong itself is not of great importance. We have little traffic essentially our own with which to bargain; our prosperity in the past has resulted from our geographical position as a port of call and trans-shipment point. Deep water and low charges have given us a big advantage with shipping, but at the moment we have little to offer as an air-port that cannot be found nearby. The British flag has long stood for a square deal and equal opportunity for all, and although the Empire is now re-

NOTES OF THE DAY

SUNSPOT MISCHIEF

Everyone is aware of the stimulating effects of the sun on human spirits. It is also scientific knowledge that the sunspots that periodically detract from the brilliance of the solar system's central heat-plant react on such things as mundane weather and wireless waves. But it is surely a new theory that is propounded by a Russian scientist, namely, that there is a close connection between sunspots and outbreaks of mob violence. Collecting statistics of revolutions, rebellions, riots, and other human upheavals, he is said to have found that for some 1,500 years the majority of them have occurred during the period when sunspots were at their maximum. The materialist, who declines to believe that there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in his philosophy, will dismiss the Russian's theory as nonsense, or at the most coincidence. Admittedly, it is not difficult, when one has allowed a theory to dominate one's mind, to find plenty of data in history or elsewhere to support it. But surely, if it be admitted that the presence or absence of sunshine has a profound effect on the outlook of human beings on life for the time being, it is not pressing the argument much further to say that sunspots may in some unexplained way impel them to rise in revolt against the existing order of things?

TO-DAY'S MOTORING HINT

THE GEAR LEVER

With many cars the gear lever is still located on the driver's off-side and is connected with the gear-box by a steel rod. It is sometimes found that the gear lever sticks when an attempt is made to get it through the gate. Each individual gear can be engaged without trouble, but when the lever is moved in a sideways direction through neutral it tends to jam.

The cause is a simple one. The cross-shaft attached to the lever is dirty and dry. The parts should be freed by injecting paraffin oil into them and then working them. Afterwards a liberal supply of oil should be used. The lever should again be worked backwards and forwards a number of times and then a little more oil should be introduced.

An oilhole is generally provided, but even if not, oiling the cross-shaft and working it a few times carries the oil between the contacting surfaces.

luctantly adopting a policy of economic nationalism, which is so rampant nowadays, Hongkong has not profited from it; in fact, it has been the loser. At the moment, this Colony is bearing a heavy burden of administrative costs, which Sir William Peel indicated, in his farewell speech, must be reduced if we are to ensure future prosperity. Government the world over has, in fact, become a very expensive luxury. It has to be paid, housed and pensioned, and the concomitant restrictions, duties and fees which are imposed are part of a vicious circle, with trade the chief sufferer. Merchants, bankers, shipowners and manufacturers want a chance to live by their own acumen and ability to meet competition; they want to be freed from the burden of restrictions often designed to foster schemes which are of no real benefit to trade. We need in Hongkong some of the keen civic spirit in evidence in the United States, where innumerable facilities are offered to traders and transportation companies. Not only are these facilities and port advantages freely advertised, but people are encouraged to settle by the offering of sites and in many other ways. It is this spirit that we want to see adopted by the Government in encouraging air lines of all nations to call here, irrespective of reciprocity. Once we get the trade, we can regulate it later. How many of Britain's Colonies "Beyond the Seas" would have been developed had the pioneers of the past been fettered by unnecessary Board of Trade regulations, Simla passenger rules, Sunday permits, Foreshores Ordinances, discriminations against aliens, and the like? Air travel is still in its pioneer stage. Now is the time to foster and encourage it. Wake up Hongkong! Seize the golden opportunity!

CAN "SANCTIONS" BE ENFORCED?

BY SALVADOR DE MADARIAGA
(Permanent Spanish Delegate to the League of Nations)

The Geneva resolution censuring Germany brings once more to the fore the question of economic and financial sanctions. The idea of a sanction or penalty is natural. There can be no collective life without punishment.

That is why all organisations created by man contain the provision of penalties.

It explains why the designers of the League Covenant considered as an important element of the new body Article 16, which punishes violations of the system of pacific settlement of international disputes, and in particular violations of Articles 12, 13 and 15, by measures which are to be taken against the aggressor by all members of the League.

Experience, however, has shown that this article of the Covenant has given such insignificant results that it would scarcely be exaggerating to call them nil. It is worth while to review the reasons which may explain this check.

First of all, there is a general reason: Article 16 is an article of the Covenant; hence anything which weakens the Covenant must weaken Article 16. Now, as everybody knows, one of the most important members of the League was amputated almost at birth. The United States, by refusing to ratify the Treaty of Versailles, but the Covenant, deprived its stipulations of all the efficacy it could only aspire to by being universal.

The weakness generalised and spread to all the Articles of the Covenant, but of them all Article 16 was certainly the most affected. In the long run, the participation of the United States was not essential to the engagement not to have recourse to armed strife without first exhausting certain pacific proceedings to resolve the dispute. But how can an economic and financial boycott or a naval blockade be applied so long as one of the most powerful nations in the world remains indifferent, hostile or simply unpredictable?

To this inhibition has been added another not less important. It has been noticeable, in the course of the League's existence, that the principal obstacle to the success of the system of sanctions does not proceed from the application of the measures it calls for. It proceeds from unwillingness to put the matter on record, from voluntary blindness to the act of the most obvious transgressor.

It is clear that this blindness arises, at least in part, from the desire to avoid the application to punishment, which would be the logical consequence of explicit recognition of the transgressor—just as a father, who for particular reasons does not want to punish his son, pretends not to see his misdeeds.

But this singular and certainly unexpected fact which characterises the first stage of the League's task, this dislike of recognising that there has been a violation of the Covenant, arises equally from another cause not less active.

Whatever the situation and however irregular it may be, all other nations feel themselves linked to the alleged transgressor by ties, conversations, treaties, mutual promises, and present or future interests. Or else they find in their own past some episode which is not sufficiently different from the one under discussion to allow them to demand their pound of flesh with the inflexibility of Shylock. Hence very often the solution is hybrid, the decision vacillating, and the text labyrinthine.

That is why it is a mistake—natural and excusable enough, but still a mistake—to wish to increase penalties in order to reinforce the decisions of the combined nations. Thereby an attempt is made to strengthen the arms, whereas up to the present it has been the brain and heart which have failed. But if we follow the course of the sanction from its legal beginnings, through the political decision whereby its application is decided, to the economic and financial phase of its enforcement, we see new and still more complex obstacles arise to hamper its efficacy.

Let us substitute symbols which everybody can replace for the names of the countries which suit them. Consider a nation A, of great economic strength, and another B, of small weight. So far as A is concerned, economic relations with B have no importance. But for B, the country A is its best client.

Hence, breaking off economic relations between A and B would be a minor matter for A, but a national disaster for B. What will B do if the rest of the international alphabet declare A to be a transgressor and demand a boycott? This relatively frequent case explains a good deal of the opposition to the application of penalties.

But there are others. It may happen—and, in fact, it has happened—that a country M occupies a predominant position in a country P, where it has large investments, spread over many industrial and other interests. If P, having been declared at fault, is to be subjected to an economic boycott, what will happen? The transgressor will take advantage of the circumstance to loosen the economic ties which bind it to M; it will stop payment of dividends, confiscate capital and plants, and thus draw profits from "punishment."

You will say that war would follow, that P would be defeated, and thus everything would come out all right, like a fairy tale, virtue triumphant in the end. But if we have supposed that economic sanctions are for the purpose of avoiding war, the argument is poor. Thus the facts reveal little by little the heart of the difficulty.

It is of little moment that the action is legally and ethically justified. Life demands that economic currents follow their natural course.

It is not possible for States, even for the most righteous reasons, to divert economic life, which has its own laws. The

Some of these pensive flappers prove to be most expensive!

It is asserted that Hongkong is really air-minded. Oh Yair!

We wish all these proposed aerial schemes would come down to earth.

And then there's the local flapper who boasts that she has been kissed in the air. We prefer the lips.

Apparently, Braddock's opponent couldn't bear the strain.

We overheard a lady remark that she had just been through a local refrigerating room. This sort of thing leaves us cold.

And then there was the old lady who thought that a bullion broker was a soup specialist.

Washington Government officials seem to think that U. S. stands for Unlimited Spending.

If Japan and Russia would only go in for baseball seriously, they'd have enough to worry about without thinking of war.

According to the Home newspapers, the Liberal Party will concentrate its efforts this summer on promising candidates. We didn't know there was any other kind.

Which reminds us that the public doesn't mind a politician's hand-shaking and back-slapping so much as his leg-pulling.

Say what you like about Sally Rand, but many other celebrities need an army of fans to make a living.

A reader says he can judge a woman's character by the type of bathing costume she wears. On that basis, we're afraid many of our flappers haven't much to size up.

What between watching the clock and the office thermometer, some of our commercial assistants are having a hard summer.

The plea for making Hongkong a big airport suggests that it's better to be up in the air than down in the dumps.

The N. C. Daily News, writing in regard to the rabies danger, says the Health Commissioner, in his annual report, is "bitingly severe" on the general apathy of the public in this matter. An instance of the use of the appropriate adjective.

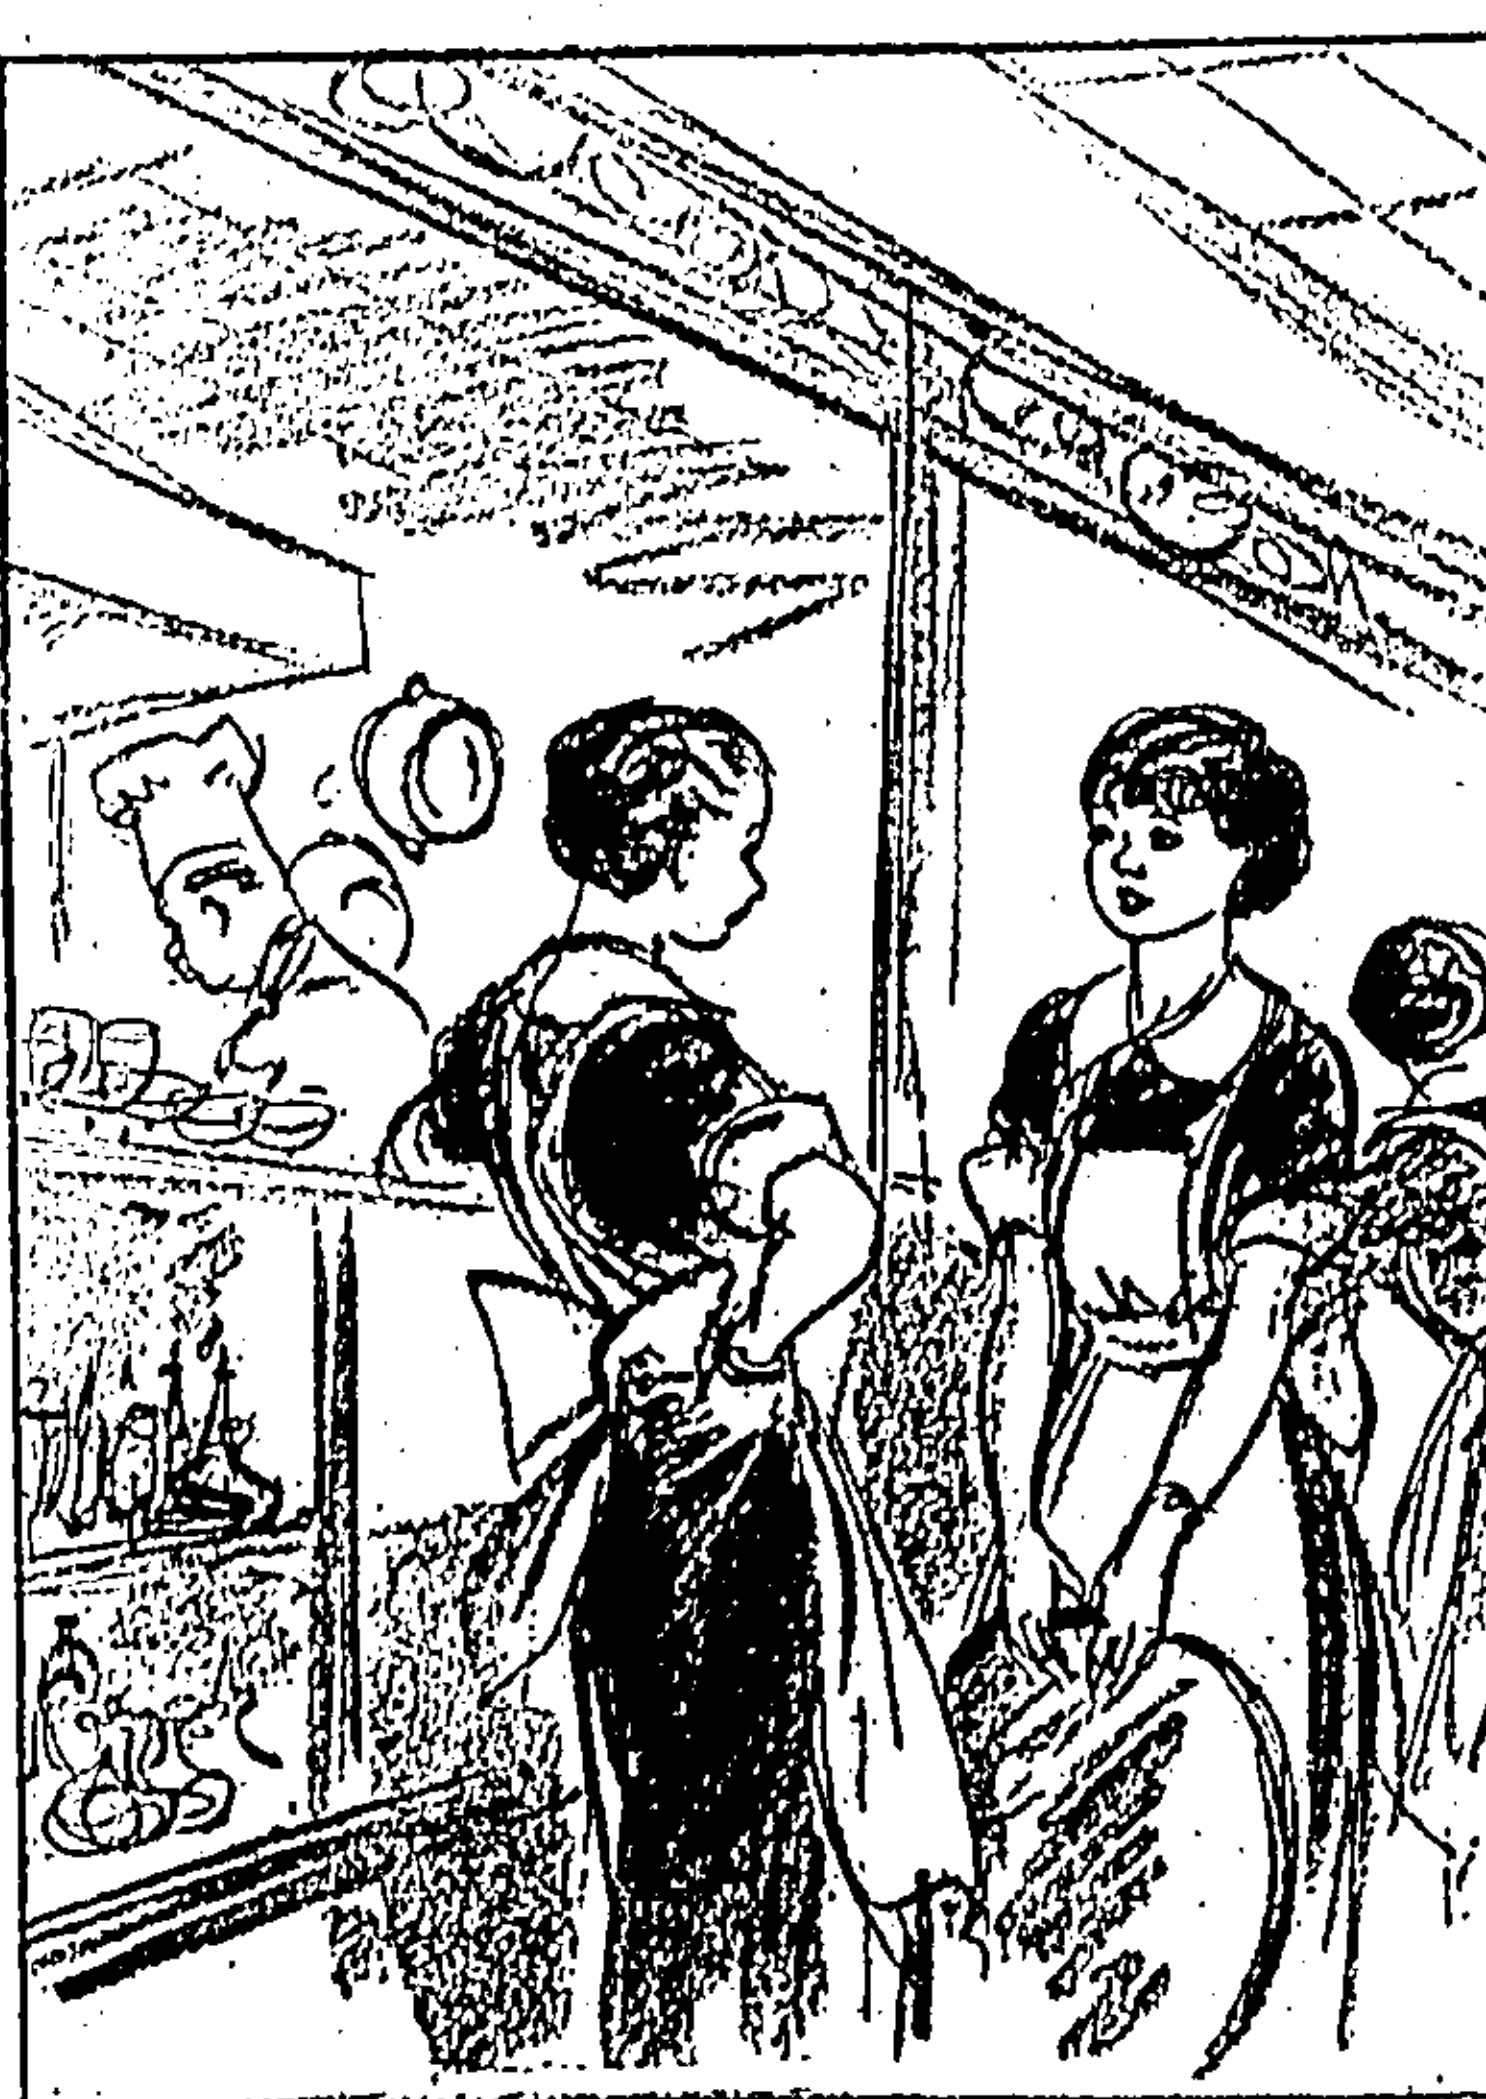

Then there was the woman who, to remember something, changed her wedding ring to another finger—and then forgot she was married!

"Who has old clothes?" asks an appeal being made to the public. Who hasn't?

Scientists think the earth looks blue to the Martians. That's nothing. It looks blue to us, too.

WOMAN FINED $100

CHARGED WITH KEEPING AN UNREGISTERED MUI-TAI

So Yuk-sheung, 35, married woman, residing at No. 173 Dea Vieux Road West, was convicted by Mr. V. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, on a summons of keeping an unregistered mui-tai, Tam Yuk-kia, aged 18 years, and was fined $100.

A summons issued against her husband, Tam Sam-ming, who is away from the Colony, for the same offence, was withdrawn on the request of Inspector O'Connor, prosecuting, after the woman had been convicted.

Mr. A. C. Arculli appeared on behalf of So Yuk-sheung.

At the previous hearing of the case, it was said that the girl herself reported she was an unregistered mui-tai. The reason for her making the complaint was because the defendant, So Yuk-sheung, was pressing her to get married, and she did not want to. Enquiries revealed she had been employed by defendant for four years. A sum of $170 was alleged to have been paid by a former employee to the defendant's husband's daughter by his first wife, and the daughter had brought the girl down from the country.

Mr. Arculli tendered as evidence for the defence yesterday a man named Kwok Cheuk-lung, who deposed that the girl was a niece of the defendant's husband.

Mr. Arculli then submitted that it was Tam Sam-ming who was liable for the keeping of the girl as an unregistered mui-tai, because he was the moving spirit behind the transaction, and he had paid the money to get her into his house. The defendant, So Yuk-sheung, was only his agent.

Mr. Schofield remarked that the girl was under the control of So Yuk-sheung, and the defence would have to prove that her husband was in the house on May 13, the date mentioned in the summons.

Kwok Cheuk-lung was then recalled, and testified that Tam Sam-ming was in the house on May 13.

Mr. Schofield, however, held that the defence had failed to prove their case, and imposed the fine stated.

CHINA FINANCES

U. S. MAY SEND ECONOMIC OBSERVERS TO EAST

Washington, June 14. The possibility of the United States co-operation being secured in surveying China's financial and monetary affairs has not been turned down by Mr. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State.

Asked whether the United States would follow the lead of Britain and France and send economic observers to China, Mr. Hull replied that the State Department might give its attention to the matter. But he emphasised that no decision with regard to a definite move had yet been taken.

Mr. Hull made this statement in response to a query from newspapermen.

Mr. Hull admitted that the matter had been discussed informally, but no definite move had been made and no decision reached, he repeated.—Reuter.

It has been learned here that France has agreed to join in the international consultation regarding China's financial condition.

THE TATTOO

SPLENDID SCENES AT RUSHMORE

London, June 14. The popularity of the Aldershot tattoo, which opened last night is unabated.

The motif of this year's show is the Crown and the Empire. It is performed against a canvas background representing the Tower of London.

Under a most elaborate and huge scale flood lighting the Rushmore Arena appeared, like a gigantic billiard table giving the performers an entrancing quality of stereoscopic figures.

There was only one episode of modern warfare and as that was without aeroplanes it might easily have dated from before the Boer war.

No "enemy" was introduced but the audience was requested to picture the scenes as witnessed from an enemy position.

One of the most beautiful features was a company of 18th century Grenadiers performing manual exercise in pink and white tunics and mitre-like caps.

The climax, with massed bands and all troops taking part, was staged with a theatrical flair worthy of Reinhardt.—Reuter's Special Service

Douglas Fairbanks, noted cinema star, also a keen and enthusiastic motorist, is here, been well pleased with the 1935 "Miracle Ride Studebaker," during his visit to Hongkong this week.

MRS. H. D. MATTHEWS OPENS NEW CLUB ROOM

Nearly one hundred members of the Australian and New Zealand Association and friends, attended the opening of the spacious room in the Gloucester Building, which will in future be the headquarters of the Association in Hongkong, yesterday afternoon.

The opening ceremony was performed by Mrs. H. D. Matthews, wife of Dr. H. D. Matthews, President of the Association, and was marked by the unfurling of the Australian and New Zealand flags.

Addressing those present Dr. Matthews said he was pleased to welcome such a large gathering. The Executive felt it to be a momentous day for the Association in Hongkong and South China because at least they now had at their disposal a room where they could offer hospitality to their friends, both resident in the Colony and passing through.

"Since the Association was formed about two years ago," said Dr. Matthews, "that need has been more or less constantly in the minds of those who have had to do with its affairs. Although we never seemed possible for us to entertain so great a responsibility. Recently, owing to a very favourable offer to us by the Hongkong Land Investment Company, who manage this building, and through the kindness of some friends of the Association, it has proved possible to get the use of this room, which I am sure you will agree is a suitable one."

A New Phase

"To-day we believe the Association has entered on a new phase of its existence," continued Dr. Matthews. "We were landless and roomless, but we are now centered and have become 'squatters.' We have a place where we can meet fellow Australians and New Zealanders and be more of a unit. More of an Association than it was possible to be before. I hope to see these rooms flourish during the months and years that are to come. We can congratulate ourselves, but I ask you to give us your support and make this room a real live success."

He expressed the hope that everyone who went to the room would feel that they were both host and guest and were welcome there.

Dr. Matthews then called on his wife to open the room by unfurling the flags of Australia and New Zealand.

Flags Unfurled

Mrs. Matthews said she hoped the Association would continue to grow and flourish and that it would never be said as she had heard it said a short while ago, that Australians in Hongkong were keeping the fact that they were Australians dark.

"We want to blaze forth that we belong to Australia and New Zealand, and I hope that will never be thrown at us again," she said.

"And may this room be always full of happy and friendly folk, such as we would find in Christchurch, Sydney, Perth and Melbourne. (Applause.)"

Mrs. Matthews then unfurled the flags, amidst prolonged acclamation.

Tea was served during the afternoon.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

BOXING CONTEST IN TIENTSIN

HAWAIIAN TEAM'S VISIT

TWO WINS FOR TOURISTS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Tientsin, June 14. Maguire, the Hawaiian boxer won a close decision over Sparks of the 15th Infantry in a boxing contest here today.

Franklin of Hawaii knocked out Felsner, also of the 15th Infantry, winning in the second round.

Giometta, of Tientsin, won a narrow verdict from Maloney, the Hawaiian. United Press.

The German tennis champion, C. von Cramm, and the Australian champion, J. H. Crawford, are pictured above after their match in the French Championships last year when the German wrestled the title from the Australian. Von Cramm defeated Crawford again in the Davis Cup match between Germany and Australia in the semi-final of the European Zone.

MR. MOODY BEATEN IN ENGLAND

FIRST LOVE SET CONCEDED

MISS STAMMERS TRIUMPHS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Beckenham, June 14. Miss Katherine Stammers, the British hard court champion, accomplished a magnificent feat by beating Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody 6-0, 6-4 in the semi-final of the Kent Championships.

There is no record of Mrs. Wills-Moody ever having previously lost a love set.

Mrs. Wills-Moody is only just recovering from back injury. Miss Stammers was driving superbly on the forehand and was keeping Mrs. Wills-Moody on the back line with deeply placed shots to the corner. She was volleying magnificently and won the first set in.

In the second set Mrs. Wills-Moody fought desperately and won the first two games but Miss Stammers won the next when Mrs. Wills-Moody removed her centre for the first time since her arrival in England. She then went ahead at 4-2 but Miss Stammers, by driving fiercely and placing accurately, won the next four games, though Mrs. Wills-Moody held the advantage point when 4-1 was called.

Mrs. Wills-Moody said that the play of Miss Stammers was marvellous and "I'm surprised at the improvement shown."

Miss Stammers is the second English lady to beat Mrs. Wills-Moody. Mrs. Godfree, when she was still Miss Kitty McKane beat Mrs. Wills-Moody in the Wightman Cup and at Wimbledon in 1924.—Reuter Special.

JAPANESE DENY RUMOURS

NO MANCHUKUO OPPOSITION TO OLYMPIAD OF 1940

Tokyo, June 8.

Emphatic formal denials that the Japanese Kwantung Army, the Manchukuo government and its officially-sponsored Athletic Federation were opposed to the efforts of the Japanese Athletic Federation to secure the 1940 Olympic Games for Tokyo were received by the Ministry of War here today.

Rumours that the Hsinking authorities were against the Tokyo meet on the ground that Manchukuo resents the fact that it has not been invited to join the Olympic Association or to send a team to the Berlin games next year were widely circulated here during the last few weeks.

In denying the rumours, the official report points out that Manchukuo has no competent athletes to send to an international competition and that, therefore, it could harbour no ill-feeling towards the Olympic Association because of its alleged slight.

Officers and men of the Kwantung Army are in favour of holding the games in Tokyo in 1940, which falls on the 2,600th anniversary of the official founding of the Japanese empire, the dispatch further stated.

BASEBALL PLAYER'S COME-BACK

LEFTY GROVE IN FORM AGAIN

RECOVERS FROM INJURY

New York, June 8.

Lefty Grove, erstwhile fireball king of the major leagues is making a nifty comeback. Grove claims that he has returned to form for the first time since the season of 1933.

From 1927 through 1933, Lefty and his first one won more than 20 games a season. However, during the 1934 training season Grove suffered an injury to his arm which cut his speed down to nothing.

The treatments which he took for the injured arm began to be effective in September and some of his speed returned. He rested up over the winter, took things easy during the training season, began to let things out a bit during the past few weeks and now he believes that he is "just about as fast as ever."

Manager Cronin declared that "if Lefty comes through the way he promises to, we may finish first, because there is no real outstanding club in the League at the present time."

RESULTS AT A GLANCE

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Lancashire (338 for 5 wickets.) beat Kent (224) on first innings.

Glamorgan (158 and 179) beat Leicestershire (97 and 179) by 136 runs.

Gloucestershire (294 for 6 wickets, dec. and 60 for 1 wkt.) beat Somerset (130 and 223) by nine wickets.

Essex (327 and 174 for 7 wickets.) beat Nottinghamshire (239 and 342 for 6 wickets, dec.) on first innings.

Northamptonshire (124 and 109) tied with Sussex (124).

Middlesex (144) beat Hampshire (126 and 17 for 3 wickets.) on first innings.

Warwickshire (254 and 221) beat Yorkshire (161 and 225 for 3 wickets.) on first innings.

BASEBALLER RETIRING FROM GAME

CHARLIE GRIMM AS MANAGER

PLAYED THIRTEEN SEASONS

Chicago, June 9.

After 13 years of active service as a player, Charlie Grimm, manager of the Chicago Cubs, announced that he would have his name placed upon the voluntarily retired list, so that he may devote all his energies to his job as manager and vice-president of the Cubs.

The brilliant play of Young Phil Cavarretta, at Grimm's old position at first base, coupled with his own back injuries from which he has been suffering, caused Grimm to make the decision.

Grimm, who was such a hard-working first-baseman that he has played in at least 140 games a season except for two years, since he entered the major league, was traded to the Cubs by Pittsburgh in 1925. He became manager of the Cubs, succeeding Rogers Hornsby, in August, 1932, and piloted the team to the National League pennant.

Cavarretta, who will not be eight years of age until July, is playing fine baseball at first base. So far he has made but one error in 123 chances.

FOOTBALL MANAGERS

Another Resignation In England

Tottenham Hotspur directors met recently to consider again the managerial position of their club, in consequence of Mr. Peter McWilliam's inability to take the appointment, because of his contract with Arsenal.

The matter was considered for several hours and, at the close, the secretary said no statement could be made.

Mr. Charles Roberts, the chairman, however, said: "We are not satisfied regarding the contract with Arsenal. We want to see a copy of it."

NEWCASTLE UNITED

At a meeting of the board of directors of Newcastle United Mr. Andy Cunningham tendered his resignation of the position of manager to the club and it was accepted.

Seecrey has been maintained over the matter and the directors refused to state the reason for the resignation. Mr. Cunningham has managed Newcastle for five years, formerly playing for them and for Glasgow Rangers. He has 12 Scottish International caps, playing first for his country in 1920.

THREE FIGURED SCORE AT BRISTOL

GLOUCESTERSHIRE BEAT SOMERSET

LEADING COUNTY CRICKET TEAMS DROP POINTS

London, June 14.

Wally Hammond, the Gloucestershire and England all rounder, is the ninth cricketer to top the hundredth century in first class matches. He performed the feat by hitting up 116 runs against Somerset at Bristol and incidentally just beat A. Sandham, the Surrey player, who with Hammond, had one more century to score.

Up to the end of last season, Hammond, who scored eight centuries last year, had 96 three figures totals to his credit but during the recent tour of the West Indies he took his number to 99. Sandham, who made two centuries last year, closed the season with a total of 184 and during the current season he made 110 against Somerset.

Hammond enabled Gloucestershire to beat Somerset in the match at Bristol by nine wickets. The victors batted first and collected a total of 130 runs, Goddard taking five for 38.

In reply Gloucestershire rattled up a total of 294 for six wickets, thanks to Hammond's contribution of 116. Somerset were then dismissed for 223.

All the leading teams dropped points as few of the fixtures were brought to a definite conclusion. Warwickshire, however, maintain their position at the top of the table by beating Yorkshire at Birmingham on first innings after scoring 254 runs, to which Yorkshire replied with 161.

Warwickshire then scored 221 in their second innings when Smiles captured six for 65 while Yorkshire had made 225 for three wickets when stumps were drawn. E. E. S. Wyatt took six for 47.

Lancashire took first innings points from Kent in their match at Manchester where rain greatly curtailed play. Kent made 234 runs, Frank Woolley contributing 85 and when Lancashire had scored 328 for five wickets stumps were drawn. Watson contributed 159 and Hopwood 96 for the champion county.

Brilliant bowling by J. C. Clay and Mercer gave Glamorgan their third victory of the season when playing against Leicestershire at Leicester where the Welsh County won by 199 runs.

After Glamorgan had scored 158 runs, Leicestershire were dismissed for 97 when Clay took eight of the wickets for 46. Glamorgan's second innings yielded 179 runs, Marlow taking six for 48 and then Leicestershire were again sent back for 104, Mercer dismissing six batsmen for 38 runs.

England bowler in form

Stanley Nichols, the English fast bowler, enhanced his selection for the Test match against the South Africans by taking seven Nottingham wickets for 77 runs at Westfield where Essex took first innings points.

Notts had batted first and scored 229 runs when Nichols took his seven wickets for 77. Cutmore scored 88 runs for Essex, whose first innings totalled 327. In their second innings Notts were able to declare at 242 for six but at the close of play Essex had 174 for seven.

Sussex and Northants each scored 124 runs in their first innings at Horsham and as the match was not concluded the counties take four points for a tie. Northants batted first and Melville took three wickets for one run while Clark took six Sussex wickets for 47 runs.

Northants made 109 in their second innings, Melville again being the most successful bowler with five for 37. There was no further play.

NEW POLE VAULT RECORD

WILLIAM GRABER IMPROVING

Los Angeles, June 5.

William (Bill) Graber, who holds the recognized world's pole vaulting record of 14ft. 4-3/4in., made in the final Olympic trials at Stanford University in 1932, should vault consistently at 14ft. 6in. this year, and possibly each fifteen feet, in the opinion of his coach, Mr. Dean Cromwell, of the University of Southern California.

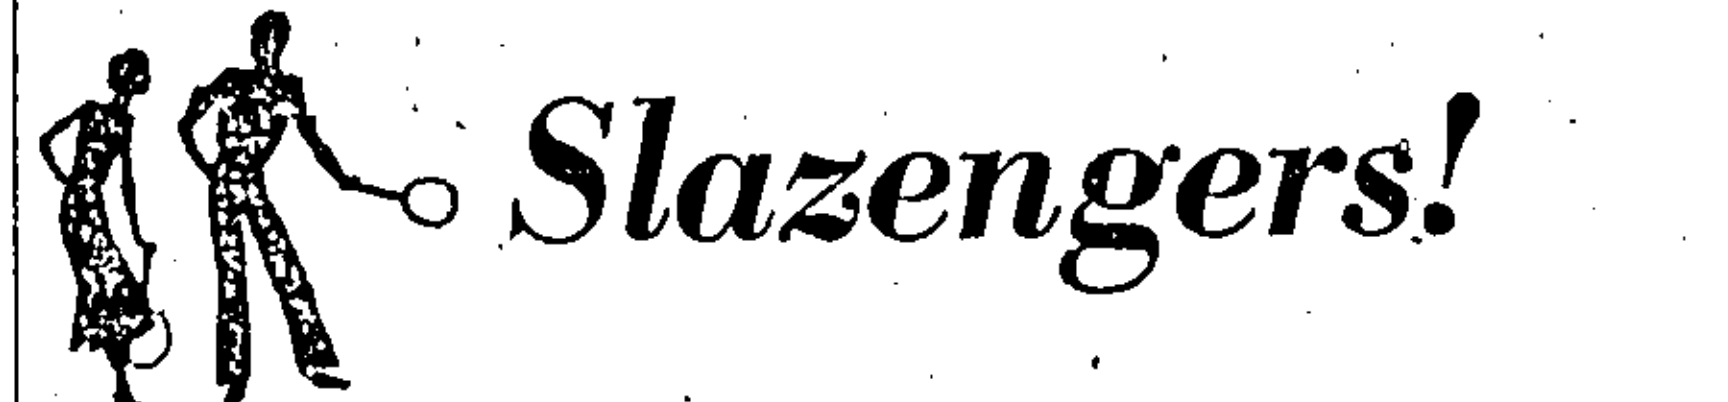

Mr. Cromwell's belief does not appear to be an exaggeration, in view of the fact that Graber only recently vaulted 14ft. 5-1/2 inches at Santa Barbara, California, for a new world record. Formal application for recognition of this as a world's record will be made to the International body in France by the A.A.U. officials in charge of the meet.

"Bill has reached the mature age of 22 and he is just about in his prime," Mr. Cromwell said. "Time, and again this Spring I have seen him very close indeed to 14ft. 6in. and anyone who can do that on our training field can do better elsewhere with competition to face."

Graber will represent the A.A.U. Far-Western championships at San Diego, and the National A.A.U. at Lincoln, Nebraska, Cromwell said. In 1936, in Berlin, he will be after the Olympic pole vaulting championship.

Graber, like other pole vaulters trained by Cromwell, runs with terrific speed, finishing with a tremendous drive off the pole. This system, Cromwell said, was known as the "fly away vaulting style."

... and they chose

Slazengers!

This year the players in the Wimbledon Championships were asked to vote for their choice of the ball. With an overwhelming majority Slazenger Balls were selected... by the world's finest players.

Since 1902 Slazenger Balls have been Wimbledon's exclusive choice. Last year they were also selected for the Davis Cup Interzone Final and Challenge Round, for the National Championships of 16 countries, and leading matches and tournaments all over the world.

In every corner of the Globe Slazenger Balls are famed for their consistently better quality.

50% Longer Life!

With the new 1935 "K" cloth, the Slazenger Ball gives 50 per cent. longer and better wear... a percentage proved by hard court and laboratory tests.

With the longer life, the consistently better quality, the truer flight and accurate "lift," the Slazenger is definitely a better ball. Try Slazenger Balls for your next game. Your Sports Store has them.

CRAIGENGOWER SUFFER FIRST DEFEAT

Club de Recreio Undisputed Bowls Leaders

(By "Sagax")

The Club de Recreio are now making one of their strongest bids for championship honours and present indications are that they will be very near the top of the table at the close of the season. Their chief rivals are the Craigengower C. C., who are the holders of the title, but they have already accounted for the Happy Valley Club.

The defeat of the holders on Saturday was not altogether a surprise. It was always realised that the Portuguese were making great strides in the game and ever since their promotion some years ago they have continued to show improvement. The many of the teams whose members are constantly leaving the Colony, the Club de Recreio are able to concentrate more on team building and they have now a number of good players included in their side.

Up to last week they and the Craigengower C. C. were the only undefeated teams in the Senior Division and although they were only two shots ahead of their opponents at the end of the game they were deserving of the two points. They were behind until the final stages of the game when they scored on the last few heads and turned the balance of points in their favour.

To-day they go to the Rowland Docks R. C. and, although the Hok Ua team are last year's wooden-spoonists, they are hovering round the middle of the table this season. They have won three of their matches and are quite capable of lowering the Recreio's colours although it will come as a surprise if they do.

One defeat does not necessarily mean surrendering the championship but the Craigengower C. C. will not find it altogether easy to make up for their loss. They have always been fighters and are, no doubt, eagerly awaiting the return match with the Recreio at Happy Valley.

It is too much to expect that both teams will be able to go through the remainder of the programme without a defeat until the arrival of the return fixture and the match on August 10 between these two teams may not carry with it the same importance as the game last week.

INTERPORT INVITATION

As has already been intimated, an invitation has been sent to Shanghai asking the Northerners to send a team of bowlers to the Colony. No dates have yet been suggested but as soon as Shanghai indicate their acceptance of the invitation the question of dates will be discussed. It is more than probable that Shanghai will come towards the end of September as usual and return in early October.

It is as yet too early to discuss the composition of the local sides, particularly as it will be necessary for the committee to decide first how the rinks are to be selected. Ever since the inauguration of the series of three interport matches the home side has selected a separate rink for each game but last year it was suggested that this method should be changed.

It was suggested then that the home team should be at liberty to play the same rink in each of the three matches if it were so desired. There is no rule governing the selection of the rinks but it has been the custom to choose three separate quarterettes for the series. This was started by Shanghai and was followed by Hongkong without question.

The matter was not taken up officially in Hongkong last year as the interport matches were played in Shanghai, but the Northerners definitely turned the proposal down as soon as they learned of the suggestion made by a local writer. I understand that they intimated to the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association that they would adhere to the original method of selection of the rinks even if Hongkong desired to change the system in the future.

RANKING OF BOWLERS

It was hinted to me the other day that a suggestion be made to the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association to issue a ranking list each year in the same way as is done in lawn tennis. In no other game is the player's uncertainty as pronounced as it is in lawn bowls and a ranking list issued on the results of the annual competitions would not altogether give a true indication of the capabilities of players.

Never before has there been such a collapse of our leading players in Hongkong and if, at the close of the present season, competitors were judged on their performances in the championships we would have some of our best players entirely ignored. Who, for instance, would say that R. F. Luz and A. W. Grimmer should not be ranked among the first ten in Hongkong? And yet both were eliminated in the first round.

Of course, the method of a separate draw for each round does not make it practicable to issue ranking lists, as it is impossible, when there is no seeding, to prevent the leading players from clashing.

His many friends will be pleased to hear that F. Napley, of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, has greatly recovered from his recent indisposition and left Hospital on Tuesday last. He had been in Hospital for some three weeks following a paralytic stroke.

Why Golf Scores Are Low

SARAZEN GIVES REASONS

Washington, D.C. June 9.
Why are golf scores lower to-day? Gene Sarazen, interviewed on the subject here, answered the question in a nine-point reply. He said:—

1. The grip. There are not so many freak grips to-day. Most of the better players are putting their grips after the style, proven to be the best, by Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Tommy Armour, and other masters.

2. The gripping end of the club is being given consideration by the manufacturers. They are spending as much time on arranging a comfortable and sure handle, as they are on the club heads and shafts.

3. There are more, and better clubs—a club for every shot. No longer does the player have to make a shot with a club ill-adapted to the purpose. And seldom does a player fear a bunker shot to-day.

4. The larger ball is easier to hit and to control.

5. The courses are better kept and easier to play.

6. There are more players—more good youngsters making the winter professional tour, getting in competitive experience.

7. These good youngsters have little fear of chance-taking. They're gamblers. They're not satisfied to lay an approach putt dead. They go for the hole and are disappointed if they don't sink three out of six of their ten-footers. And they've made us veterans shake off our conservatism and go for the cup too.

8. Everyone uses wooden tees on short holes, whereas, before, many teed up on the turf. It's the same shot off the tee, but different turf makes different shots.

9. No longer is there a Jones complex! A few years back players were worrying about what Jones was doing. Now they don't care what anyone is doing. Do your best and fear no man! is their slogan.

"But, sighed Gene, 'the duffer is the last to profit by any of these improvements. He's still banging out his 100-plus.'"

JAPANESE CLAIMS NEW RECORD

Koike Sets New Time For 200 Metres

Tokyo, June 10.
Reizo Koike, Koto University swimmer, yesterday established a new 200-metre record over a long course which he covered in 2 min. 42.8 seconds, the Japan Aquatic Federation claimed to-day. The former internationally recognized record of 2 min. 44.6 secs. was established on April 2, 1931 in Chicago by L. Spence—Rengo.

Scenes from Edward G. Robinson's most brilliant picture to date, "The Whole Town's Talking," which is opening at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

EXCESS FAT DUE TO RHEUMATISM

Only One Remedy Needed

Having rheumatism so badly that she could scarcely walk, this woman began to put on a load of superfluous flesh. In a letter just received, she writes:—

"I had a severe attack of rheumatism in both knees. It was so bad that for three weeks I could not put my feet to the ground. I was also getting terribly fat—through not getting my usual exercise. I started taking Kruschen, and persevered. The first thing I noticed was the tonic effect it had; the next that my rheumatism went, and—better than anything—I lost the wretched fat. I am a woman of 50, and yet I do exactly the same work as women half my age without the least difficulty."—M.E.

The six salts of Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day the waste and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely. The rheumatism and headaches disappear. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more so than ever before in your life.

FORGED TICKETS

ANOTHER MOTOR BUS CO. CASE COMMENCES

Another Kowloon Motor Bus Company ticket forgery case opened at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon before Mr. Wynne-Jones, when five Chinese ex-conductors appeared on various charges of embezzlement, defrauding and uttering of forged tickets. The five defendants were:

Tang Koon-wah, 25 years of age, ex-conductor, charged with having, on April 10, (a) embezzled ten cents from the Kowloon Motor Bus Company, (b) uttered a forged ticket and (c) defrauded the Kowloon Motor Bus Company.

Fung Hap alias Fung Chun, 22 years of age, ex-conductor, on similar charges to first defendant.

Lau Cheuk alias Lau Kwan, 26 years of age, ex-conductor, charged with uttering a forged ticket.

Wong Shui-ping and Tsang Yeung both charged with embezzlement, uttering forged tickets and defrauding the Company.

Mr. E. S. C. Brooks, of Hastings and Company, appeared for the prosecution, while Mr. D. L. Strellett, of Hall Bratton and Company, represented four of the defendants.

Separate Cases

At the commencement of yesterday's hearing, Mr. Brooks suggested that it would be impossible to take all the defendants together. Although the evidence would be similar, he said, there were different buses, different tickets and different passengers to be dealt with. In answer to Mr. Wynne-Jones, Mr. Brooks said that the case was not for committal.

Mr. Strellett, on behalf of his clients, pleaded not guilty. It was decided to hear the case against Tsang Yeung, and Mr. Brooks in giving a general opening covering the main facts, said:

"Tsang Yeung was a conductor employed on one of the Kowloon Motor buses on April 10. The system by which the tickets are issued is that when a conductor is first employed he is given a punch, specially bought from America, for which he signs a card. He retains that punch the whole of the time he is on the run. The tickets, which have counterfoils, have numbers entered in the way-bill. When the tickets are issued, the conductor checks them up and is required to sign a book mentioning the number of the bus, way-bill and his own number. When he sells a ticket, he is, of course, required to collect the money and put the number of the ticket on the way-bill. When he goes off duty, he returns the unsold tickets and hands in his way-bill, signed. The money is then checked up by a shroff.

Bus Co. Suspicious

"On April 10, of this year, the defendant was acting as conductor on Bus 650 on Route No. 1. He was given tickets numbered from UR3600 to UR3699 which were ten cent second class tickets. On that day, the Bus Company, being suspicious, employed two men in plain clothes to board any bus, purchase a ticket and to write down in a book the time, place where he boarded the bus, bus number and route number. Later, these two men handed these books over to the company. In each case, the number of the forged ticket which was sold was not entered as sold in the company's way-bill. There is a definite difference between a forged ticket and a true, from a printer's point of view."

Mr. Li Yai-nok, owner of the printing office for the Kowloon Motor Bus Company, entered the witness box to give expert evidence on forged and true tickets. Among the points showing the difference with the two types of tickets were that the words "Kowloon Motor Bus Co." were lined up on the true tickets and hand-set on the forgeries, in reproduction the word "and" was changed to "ano" and "demand" to "demand", and the chop was different.

Secret System

Witness estimated that between 600,000 and 700,000 second class ten cent tickets were issued every month. The system of choosing the serial numbers was a secret. He then gave details of the various processes of printing tickets.

Mr. Sui-tak Liu, manager of the Kowloon Motor Bus Company, corroborated Mr. Brooks' description of the methods used for checking up tickets by the Bus Company. He said that on April 10, he instructed two men to board any bus and enclose tickets in books containing details of their journeys. They returned at 4 p.m. with the forged ticket UR3652. In defendant's way-bill this ticket was entered as not sold.

At this point, the hearing was adjourned until Wednesday, June 19, at 2.30 p.m.

PORTUGUESE CONSUL

CLUB LUSITANO WELCOMES NEW ARRIVAL

The newly appointed Portuguese Consul, Senhor Alvaro Brilhante Laborinho, was entertained by the Portuguese institutions at a largely attended reception at Club Lusitano yesterday evening.

After formal introductions, the Presidente of the Club Lusitano, Dr. F. M. Graça Ozorio, in warmly welcoming the Consul wished him continued success in his career and assured him that the community's co-operation will not be lacking in anything he might have in view to promote national welfare.

Availing himself of the opportunity, Dr. Ozorio hinted at a desirable modification concerning consular passports, and asked the Consul's good offices to submit same, with his weighty recommendation, to His Excellency the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Portugal for consideration.

Dr. Ozorio then asked those present to join him in toasting the new Consul, wishing him health, wealth and prosperity.

In reply, the Consul said he was really grateful for the splendid reception accorded him and was really at a loss to find words to express his feelings adequately. He could assure everyone that he was happy in being in Hongkong, as the representative of his Government, since, immediately he came into contact with his fellow citizens, after his arrival here, he felt he was amongst friends, therefore he had no misgivings whatsoever as regards anything he might need from the community for the common good and in the interests of the mother-country.

With regard to the suggestion made by Dr. Ozorio, he would gladly transmit same, with his recommendations, to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and no doubt it would receive sympathetic consideration.

Reiterating his thanks, the Consul drank to the prosperity of the community in general.

Refreshments were then served, and dancing was indulged in until dinner time, to the strains of music supplied by the Trobadours.

Among the passengers leaving by the General Lee yesterday, for Shanghai, was Mr. G. W. Greene of the American Oriental Finance Corporation, Hongkong, who is proceeding to Shanghai seeking clarification of the position of both the Hongkong and Shanghai officers of the Corporation. Mr. Greene will be returning to the Colony by the Dollar steamship President Pierce, arriving here on June 24.

SERIAL STORY—

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE

CHAPTER XLV

Buchanan said, "That clinches it. You're Phyllis Faulconer. That note was written by Bob Cain. Sergeant Mahoney let me 10 bucks that when we got Phyllis Faulconer I'd find that Bob Cain had tipped her off about the car. That's why he sent me to wait for it. Come on, you're going to headquarters and get booked."

"But you don't understand," she said. "That note wasn't left for me. That was."

"Oh baloney!" he said. "I've heard enough of your alibis. You come with me. You can tell your troubles to Sergeant Mahoney."

"Thank heavens!" she said. "I can at least talk with some one who's got intelligence."

"Go on, smartly, make all your wise cracks," he said, opening the door of the automobile and pulling her by the hand. "You may think I'm dumb but I have sense enough to trap you and trap you right."

She recognised the futility of further argument and braced herself to be led down the stairs. Once more she saw the plying glance of the uniformed attendant of the garage and now she understood its complete significance. He had known that a police detective was waiting to arrest whoever showed up to take out that Faulconer sedan, and he had known she was walking into a trap when she climbed the stairs.

"Well," Buchanan said triumphantly. "I got her."

"Do you need those handcuffs?" the garage man asked.

Buchanan flashed him a belligerent glance.

"I'll say I do. She's wanted for murder."

"You're about a 100-pounds heavier than she is," he remarked. "If she hasn't got a gun you should be able to handle her without handcuffs."

"You don't need to tell me how to do my job," Buchanan remarked. "All I want you to do is to show me where the telephone is and then keep quiet."

The attendant jerked his head toward the office. Buchanan took his foot around the leg of a chair, jerked it a few inches toward Millicent and said, "Sit down there and rest yourself. Don't try to make a break."

He picked up the telephone, said, "Police headquarters," and then, after a moment said, "Sergeant Mahoney there? Well, let me talk with Ramsey. Hello, Ramsey, this is Buchanan. I got the Faulconer Jane. Yes, she's sitting right here at the Savoy garage. Where's Mahoney?"

The receiver made a long series of squawking noises, and Buchanan said, "Well, see if you can get Ramsey. Hello, Ramsey, this is Buchanan. I got the Faulconer Jane. Yes, she's sitting right here at the Savoy garage. Where's Mahoney?"

Buchanan hung up the telephone.

"And now," Millicent asked, "do we start for headquarters?"

"Not yet, sister."

He tilted back in the chair, put his feet upon the desk, pulled a black cigar from his pocket, clipped off the end, inspected it, wrapped his lips around it, scratched a match on the sole of his shoe and concentrated his attention upon lighting the cigar.

When he had it burning to suit him he puffed out clouds of smoke, in a manner that of one who is very well pleased with himself.

"Well," Millicent demanded impatiently, "what are we waiting for? I want to talk with someone who has some authority."

"Sister," he told her, "I've got all the authority you need to bother about."

"I mean," she said, "someone who has sense as well as authority."

"I had sense enough to outsmart you," he told her.

She ignored the comment.

After a few moments she demanded again, "Well, what are we waiting for?"

"That," he said, "is one of the things you might like to know, but you're pretty smart and you'll know what I want to tell you and nothing else."

"I demand," she said, "to be taken to headquarters. I happen to know that you've got to take me before a magistrate when you arrest me."

"So," he said, "you've got a criminal record, have you?"

"No, I haven't a criminal record. I've got work to do and I demand an opportunity to vindicate myself."

"Don't worry. You're going to get that, I promise. If you're on the up, and up you'll know it in a very few minutes."

"How?"

"We've got someone coming who can identify the real Phyllis Faulconer. I won't take your word one way or another. I'm betting you're Phyllis Faulconer, but just the same I'm going to give you a chance to prove it."

"Oh," she said, "if you'd only do that! If you'd only have someone from the apartment house who knows the real Phyllis Faulconer it would save you the humiliation of making a false arrest and save me a lot of time."

"Okay, sister," he agreed good-naturedly, pulling smoke at the ceiling. "I've got a chap by the name of Johansen coming around here. He knows the real Phyllis Faulconer and I know him. He's a square-shooter, but he's hard-boiled and you can't slip anything over on him. Here he comes now."

Millicent heard the pound of heavy steps. She already anticipated the vindication that was to be hers. She turned a smiling face, and then the smile froze on her lips and panic filled her eyes.

"Hello, Johansen," said Buchanan.

The man who pushed his way through the glass partitioned doorway nodded a greeting and then shifted his eyes to Millicent.

He was the officer who had knocked on the door of the apartment and complained to Millicent about the excessive noise—the man who had blown the police whistle when she fled from the apartment.

(To Be Continued.)

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

A Hollywood property department would much sooner be asked to reproduce the living room of an ancient Roman mansion than that of an American housewife of the early nineteenth century, according to Julie Heron, who is responsible for furnishing all the interior sets of films made by 20th Century Pictures. "It is much easier to get authentic information regarding the interiors of homes and commercial establishments of ancient Rome than it is to get the same information concerning America from 1800 to 1850," says Miss Heron, who met this problem while working on the Barrow P. Zuckor production of "The Mighty Barrow," released through United Artists and showing to-day at the King's Theatre, with Wallace Beery portraying the great showman. "The reason we encounter so much difficulty in this respect with this period is due to the lack of authentic pictures. The little information we do have is obtained from comparatively few authentic books. The authors of that time apparently cared little about interior decoration, for few of their books contain anything about interiors. There is ample material, however, concerning exterior life. In gathering data for 'The Mighty Barrow' we spent considerable time on research," said Miss Heron. "We found very little information, but of what we did find, we made good use. Among other things, it was necessary for us to make up special barrels, brooms, show cases, trunks and numerous other articles in the various scenes. 'It was a difficult task,' concluded Miss Heron, 'but I believe we have made as faithful a reproduction of the interiors of that time as it is possible to make.'"

"The Case of the Howling Dog"

The title of Champion Screamer of the Warner Bros. Studios has passed to Dorothy Tree, and according to the sound engineer who recorded Dorothy's winning scream at the climax of the murder trial in "The Case of the Howling Dog," which comes to the Alhambra Theatre on Sunday, nobody is likely to take it away from her for some time to come. Miss Tree, as housekeeper for a man supposed to have been slain by his jealous wife, is the State's star witness at the trial. The script called for the scream of a woman who had been under a tension for weeks, and whose last nerves had finally snapped under the merciless pounding of the defense attorney who had subjected her to a grueling cross-examination. Director Alan Crosland had made up his mind that it should be the most thrilling, spine-quivering scream ever heard in talking pictures. Dorothy promised to do her best and the sound hookup was made. Dorothy cut loose with a shriek that made workmen stop and wonder what was going on. "Print that one!" exclaimed Crosland with a delighted grin. "That beats any scream I've ever heard since I began directing pictures. Until Dorothy Tree's performance in 'The Case of the Howling Dog,' Barbara Stanwyck, so the sound men on the lot say, had held the scream championship for the screen she gave forth during the making of "Ever In My Heart."

"The Whole Town's Talking"

"The Whole Town's Talking" which opens its engagement to-day at the Queen's Theatre is at once a hit. Unsurpassed in entertainment value and boasting one of the outstanding performances of the year in the serio-comic characterisation by Edward G. Robinson, the film is a robust, exciting and hilarious comedy-drama. It is a decided success, and one that will keep the whole town talking for a long time. Based on a story by W. R. Bennett, who also wrote Robinson's former great success, "Little Caesar," the film play has been deftly adapted to the screen by the two ace screenwriters at the Columbia Studios, Jo Swerling and Robert Isidore. The result was to be expected from this combination of writing talent. Between them they have written "It Happened One Night," "Lady for a Day," "Broadway Bill," "No Greater Glory" and "Man's Castle." John Ford directed with consummate skill and artistry, mingling exciting action, drama and comedy with superb characterization. The story concerns the hilarious adventures of an inoffensive frightened little clerk who is mistaken for the country's most sought-after gangster. He is given a "passport" by the authorities to identify him at all times. His gangster counterpart, however, frightens the clerk into hiding nights while he uses the "passport" to carry on his criminal activities. Jones, the clerk, finally develops an undermourned courage when his dream-love, the lovely Jean Arthur, is kidnapped by the gangster. In a startling and sensational climax he captures the criminal and his partner and discloses to the man's satisfaction that he is a man's man. Other in the cast of this fast-paced, thrilling comedy drama are Wallace Ford, Arthur Hohl, Arthur Byron, Donald Meek and John Wray. They lend excellent support to the principal players.

"The Defense Rests"

"The Defense Rests," which is scheduled as the next change at the Queen's Theatre, is a powerfully told dramatic revelation of the courtroom exploits of a brilliant sensation-seeking lawyer. Jack Holt is seen in the role of Matt Mitchell, the astute "mouthpiece" and the characterisation he presents is one of the high spots of the current cinema season. Ruthless, unscrupulous, and disgusted with the sham of his profession, Matt delivers a bombshell in the opening scenes in a vitriolic address to the graduating class of his old alma mater, exhorting the amazed students to earn an honest living as bricklayers and typists. Half an hour later, finding that sensational address condemned on the front pages, he cynically comments, "That's advertising which money can't buy"—and he adds "and which the bar association can't bar." Nevertheless, one of his ardent admirers in the graduating class, ably portrayed by Jean Arthur, wins an appointment as his private secretary, and her first official act is to roundly berate Mitchell for his unethical conduct in criminal cases. When Holt attempts to defend an obviously guilty kidnapper, Miss Arthur undertakes a bit of private sleuthing on her own, and compromises the lawyer into a more scrupulous attitude towards his work. Fine, understanding performances by the whole cast distinguish the film play. Among these supporting players are Shirley Grey, Raymond Walburn, Donald Meek, Nat Pendleton, Arthur Hohl and Sarah Padden. Direction is by Lambert Hillyer from an original screen play by Jo Swerling.

"The Life of Vergie Winters"

Striking straight to the heart with its sincerity, its human qualities, and its poignant drama, "The Life of Vergie Winters" takes its place as one of the noteworthy screen achievements of the year. Not only does this RKO-Radio Picture at the Star Theatre, provide Ann Harding with a distinctive and powerful role, but it also tells a story that must rank as one of the truly beautiful romances of all time. In her characterisation of the sacrificing small town milliner, Vergie Winters, Miss Harding reveals superb artistry. Seldom does a star of her ability find so ideal an opportunity to portray a heroine of such sympathy and strength, and the result is nothing less than a delightful performance. John Bates, too, has perhaps the best role of his screen career, and the combination of his talents with those of Miss Harding is exceptionally effective. A speaking cast which for numbers is almost a motion picture record, does brilliantly in support of the central characters, noteworthy being the performances of Helen Vinson and Betty Furness. The return of Molly O'Day and Wesley Barry to the screen also is of particular interest.

"You're Telling Me"

Hollywood has never produced a funnier film than "You're Telling Me," the amazingly hilarious comedy which gives W. C. Fields his first starring role for Paramount. It opened yesterday at the Alhambra Theatre. Featured in the supporting cast are Larry "Buster" Crabbe, Joan Marsh, and Adrienne Ames. The picture is a screen play by Walter de Leon and Paul M. Jones with dialogue by J. P. MacEnvoy was directed by Eric Kenton. In the film, Fields introduces the burlesque golf act, which used to stop the show in the Ziegfeld Follies, and it brought loads of laughter yesterday too. Fields depicts a character who, that of a small town optician who spends all of his time putting around nutty inventions, ranging from a murder-chair for maltreated tired burglars to a puncture-proof tire. It is not until a family crisis arises that he really goes to work to put over an invention of comedy scenes, he succeeds, and brings happiness to his family. But success does not come until the audience has had more than an hour of hard deep-down laughter.

"The Defense Rests"

"The Defense Rests," which is scheduled as the next change at the Queen's Theatre, is a powerfully told dramatic revelation of the courtroom exploits of a brilliant sensation-seeking lawyer. Jack Holt is seen in the role of Matt Mitchell, the astute "mouthpiece" and the characterisation he presents is one of the high spots of the current cinema season. Ruthless, unscrupulous, and disgusted with the sham of his profession, Matt delivers a bombshell in the opening scenes in a vitriolic address to the graduating class of his old alma mater, exhorting the amazed students to earn an honest living as bricklayers and typists. Half an hour later, finding that sensational address condemned on the front pages, he cynically comments, "That's advertising which money can't buy"—and he adds "and which the bar association can't bar." Nevertheless, one of his ardent admirers in the graduating class, ably portrayed by Jean Arthur, wins an appointment as his private secretary, and her first official act is to roundly berate Mitchell for his unethical conduct in criminal cases. When Holt attempts to defend an obviously guilty kidnapper, Miss Arthur undertakes a bit of private sleuthing on her own, and compromises the lawyer into a more scrupulous attitude towards his work. Fine, understanding performances by the whole cast distinguish the film play. Among these supporting players are Shirley Grey, Raymond Walburn, Donald Meek, Nat Pendleton, Arthur Hohl and Sarah Padden. Direction is by Lambert Hillyer from an original screen play by Jo Swerling.

HONGKONG'S FUTURE AS AN AIR-PORT

on the part of those responsible result.

MEETING SUGGESTED

If, as seems possible, there is a really strong body of persons interested in this subject, of Hongkong's air future, would it not be instructive to call a meeting at which views might be exchanged and points for concerted action whipped out?

It must be borne in mind that, while Hongkong is physically part of China as regards land traffic, she is equally part of the ocean as regards seaborne traffic; hence her usefulness as an entrepot. But for air traffic her position is not yet defined. Twenty years ago, when landplanes were more advanced than seaplanes, her physical affinity was with the land. In twenty years' time, if the present development of flying boats is not continued, she will be independent of the land. To-day she can only appeal to comparative small flying boats analogous to what in the shipping world is called coastal traffic. Thus the unwisdom of arriving at a too hurried decision.

The position of China is very different, and very difficult, but she will lose little by maintaining to the last her "Air Integrity," for all countries will desire to effect contact with her for the carrying of her export and import trade. Also, in the end, all countries will be able to fly the globe without using her air. Only if she should wish to compete in international traffic will she find her standpoint antagonistic to her desires.

COMPROMISE PLAN

If it is really true that Pan-American Airways wish to use Hongkong as the terminus to their trans-Pacific line, their preparations cannot be completed for some considerable time yet; and when they do come, their visits will be irregular or at long intervals. I would suggest that a temporary compromise might be reached by the Hongkong and South China Governments, both agreeing to landings being made in the Bias Bay region, where passengers and freight can be transferred by launch directly into either China or Hongkong, according to their destination. Experiment along any form of compromise is so much easier to all parties than to force a decision upon a major point of international politics. Shataukok is not more than forty minutes by road or rail from Hongkong and about the same time, by air, from Canton.

I heartily encourage you to continue your campaign so that as many as possible may set their minds to the problem and thus hasten the day when Hongkong will be pre-eminent, not as the "Charing Cross" or "Piccadilly Circus" of the air, but as Hongkong a place where men can earn their living without this incessant doubt and shadow of war which at present mars our every effort. It is impossible to over-estimate the steady factor that this Colony might become were it to handle only the present daily traffic of Le Bourget or Templehof.

E. B. BRASIER-CREAGH,
27 Peak Mansions.

U.S. AIR BASES

Washington, June 14. The Senate Military Committee to-day approved the Bill authorising the construction of Army air bases on frontiers of the nation, in Alaska, on the Mexican border, along Panama Canal and possibly facing Canada and the Caribbean Sea.—Reuter.

PEACE AT LAST IN THE CHACO

HOSTILITIES CEASE AT MID-DAY

WIDESPREAD REJOICING

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messenger, London, 1935. Received, June 15, 1935 a.m.)

Asuncion, June 14.

The commanders of the Bolivian and Paraguayan armies to-day ordered a cessation of hostilities at mid-day along the entire front of the Gran Chaco Valley. For the first time in three years the slaughter in the fever-ridden swamps of the Chaco will stop.

There is rejoicing in the late belligerents and in the neighbouring republics. The towns of the Argentine are bagged and decked in celebration of the signing of the armistice.

A neutral military commission which has arrived at Asuncion, capital of Paraguay, from Buenos Aires, left by air for Villa Montes in the Gran Chaco to-day. It will survey the front and determine the position of the two armies as provided by the armistice.—Reuter Special.

PEACE TALKS

Buenos Aires, June 14.

The Gran Chaco war ended at noon to-day.

A Neutral Military Commission is fixing the lines to be held by skeleton forces during the coming peace talks.—United Press.

CANTON SALT TAX

PLAN TO REMIT COLLECTION TO NANKING

Canton, June 14.

Canton's provincial government revenue will be reduced by several million dollars annually, if Mr. H. H. Kung, the Nanking Finance Minister, succeeds in his demand for the restoration of the provincial salt revenues to the Nanking Government. Mr. H. H. Kung yesterday telegraphed to Mr. Au Pong-po, the Canton Treasurer, suggesting that from July 1, 1935, all salt revenues of Kwangtung should be remitted to Nanking.

Remittance of Kwangtung's salt revenues to Nanking discontinued in 1931, when the South-western leaders established the anti-Chiang Kai-shek government in Kwangtung. The government has since remained in the hands of the Canton government. As a retaliation, Nanking recently imposed high salt taxes in Hunan, which had disastrous effects on the exportation to Hunan of Kwangtung's salt.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

H.E. the Officer Administering the Government has appointed Lieut. W.J.R. Craig, 1st Battalion Lincolnshire Regiment, to be his A.D.C., with the local rank of Captain.

The forthcoming wedding is announced of Mr. Melchior Maria Francisco d'Assis Graça Gutierrez, broker, of 55 Parkes Street, Kowloon and Mrs. Ermancia Tubilio de Castro, widow, of the same address.

FIERCE TORM OVER HONGKONG

Road, Dundas Street, Peace Avenue, Argyle Street, Fa Yuen Street, Tung Choi Street, Kwong Wah Road, Pitt Street and Nathan Road. Most of the pavements, including President Apartments, were this morning covered in thick mud. Street cleaners were early on the scene to clear the thoroughfares. Residents were inconvenienced at the bus stopping places where most of the mud had collected.

Low-lying areas in other parts of the Colony were also flooded, the greater part of Happy Valley being under water this morning.

TWO LIVES LOST

During the height of the storm, a sampan capsized in Causeway Bay Shelter, with, it is reported, the loss of two lives.

A 10-ton boulder crashed down the hillside at Kennedy Town, but no serious damage is reported.

Some 50 to 100 tons of earth and rock fell down from the hillside into Quarry Bay Road, east of Quarry Bay School, blocking the tramlines. At 6 o'clock coolies from the P.W.D. were busy clearing the debris and an hour later the trams were able to get through.

U.S. STRIKE THREAT

NATION-WIDE WALK OUT BY WORKERS TO-DAY

Washington, June 14. Labour leaders announced to-day that the threatened nationwide strike by 300,000 bituminous workers would begin to-morrow night, unless President Roosevelt intervened.

Hopes have virtually faded that Congress will immediately enact the Guffey Bill, restoring to workers the privileges lost under the N.R.A. Code.—United Press.

Edison Workers Strike Toledo, June 14.

Operating employees of the Edison Corporation have voted for an immediate strike. A secret meeting unanimously rejected counter proposals by the company and demanded a 20 per cent. increase in salary and a reclassification of work.

Picket lines have been established around the Edison buildings.—United Press.

Let Police Run Country

Dearborn, June 15. Mr. Henry Ford, the famous motor car magnate, in an interview to-day complained that the Federal Government tried to meddle too much with business.

He promised that the Ford Company would manufacture a million motor cars next year "if the Government would just let the police department run the country.—United Press."

U.S. AMBASSADOR

Washington, June 14. Mr. Nelson Johnson has been approved by the Senate as America's first Ambassador to China.—United Press.

THE KING'S RECOVERY

London, June 14. The condition of His Majesty the King was to-day reported as being entirely satisfactory.—British Wireless.
